

Cut up each section on the green line, then re-stick in the correct order.

Just then, right above her, Mara noticed hundreds more mini model aircraft making their way through the sky.

Suddenly, a small, mysterious object hit Mara on the head.

After some hard work and quick thinking, Mara pulled the string but the propeller flew off in front of them both!

From out of nowhere a tiny aircraft flew past Mara and crashed into a tree. At that moment, a miniature man dropped out, looking worried.

After the second attempt failed, Mara shook her head. They almost gave up hope until...

It was another beautiful, sunny day and Mara was out at the park trying out her latest aircraft design.

Lucas flew away into the night sky. She watched as the darkness lit up with beautiful, sparkling stars. One began to twinkle and she knew the difference she had made.

Not knowing what to do, Mara got out her phone and took a picture.
